

BALTIC PROVINCES IN REVOLT TROOPS ARE HURRIED FORWARD

Extraordinary Conditions Prevail Throughout The Empire of The Czar—The Throne Is Threatened and The Proletariat Is in the Saddle and Carrying All Before It

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—Despite the statement that two army corps are being sent to the Baltic provinces it is learned that no such number of troops is available. The government has sent two regiments from St. Petersburg in reply to the frantic appeals for re-inforcements, but it is considered too dangerous to deplete the garrison of the capital any further during the present crisis and the government can only await the arrival of the Cossacks and other troops which are being hurried forward by General Lanevitch from Manchuria. In the meantime the government's fear is that the rebellion that is extending southward toward the Polish frontier may incite the Poles to an armed uprising.

The details regarding the establishment of the so-called republic of Kharkoff have at last arrived. The workmen socialistic organization, joined by three hundred troops, took possession of the city and with the aid of military armed with pistols and axes, established a council or "federal council" as the executive committee is called. The council issued decrees which the authorities were perfectly powerless to resist. The council turned off the electricity from the houses on the ground that it only benefited the rich where allowing it to turn in the streets it benefited the poor people, and declared war on the thieves which had previously been terrorizing the city. When a robber was captured he was placed under a trap hammer with the threat that it would be dropped unless he revealed the whereabouts of the booty. This usually was effective in each case and the recovered plunder was recovered to its owners. Two notorious robbers were hanged in the public square.

Eve of Final Struggle.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—Russia is apparently on the eve of a great if not final struggle for mastery, between the government and the proletariat. Both sides have lined up for battle. Late yesterday afternoon all indications pointed to a declaration of a summons for a complete general strike today which will tie up the war by the proletariat in the form of railroads, the telegraphs and every industry and business in the empire. All the proletariat groups here have decided in favor of a general strike and news has been received that the workmen's council and the allied bodies at Moscow have also pronounced in favor of it. The decision of the central committee of the railroad union sitting at Moscow, without the support of which the other organizations probably will not risk a battle, has not yet been received but it is known the delegates from St. Petersburg and the Baltic provinces are in favor of the movement and the leaders here are confident that the radicals will carry the day.

Tomorrow Russia may again be cut off from the world, not only by wire, but by rail.

There is an air of suppressed excitement throughout the city. The streets have a regular holiday appearance in honor of the emperor's name day, and are crowded.

Collisions between reds and loyalists are momentarily expected but none have been reported up to the present hour.

A big loyalist demonstration has been planned but it was abandoned at the request of the prefect of the police, who believes it may provoke bloodshed.

Batteries of machine guns are stationed at several points of vantage throughout the city and patrols of infantry and Cossacks are everywhere. A specially heavy guard is stationed in the neighborhood of the Jewish market.

Services are held in all the churches today and in every barracks the emperor's order for an increase of pay and of food was read to the troops.
